BAU Gallery Presents

The Exhibition You Never Saw

Roots

Opening Date Second Saturday, June 13TH

We are excited as we dip our toe in to reopening from the long sleep.

Like all other businesses, the shut-down due to Covid 19 evolved rapidly. We had just hung our show "Roots" when we had to shutter the doors to our business that very night. The artworks have been up all these long months waiting to be seen.

We present to our audience "The Exhibition You Never Saw." A collection of works by our gallery artists Carla Goldberg, Joan Phares, Pamela Zaremba, Melissa Schlobohm, Eileen Sackman, Jebah Baum, Ilse Schreiber-Noll, Faith Adams, Lukas Milanak And introducing our two new artists John DeMarco and Daniel Berlin.

Open hours at first will be very limited and we will not have an opening reception this month to work out our safe strategies in anticipation of our larger community exhibition in July.

HOURS Saturdays only 2-5. Masks and social distancing observed please. We will be happy to help you with any questions or concerns. Artworks are for sale. Please support the arts in Beacon.

Additionally, we are preparing for a Hudson Valley art community exhibition for July to give our regional artists a jumpstart in getting works exhibited once again. A portion of proceeds and suggested donations will be donated to our local Food Bank. An Open Call to Hudson Valley artists will be out shortly.

Opening Date Second Saturday, June 13TH

506 Main Street Beacon, NY Gallery Hours are limited to Saturdays from 2-5 to start out as we begin our process of opening back up and making sure we stay in compliance and make sure our artists and audience feel safe and comfortable.
